PASTORS CORNER at New Vision

Last Sunday's focus was on the importance of understanding our personal testimony in Christ, to better enable us to share the gospel with others. When the opportunity arises to share our faith with friends, co-workers and even strangers it is important to be able to verbalize the change that knowing Jesus has made in our personal lives.

Many people we come in contact with view their lives as a set of scales weighing out the good and bad that we have done. To often people feel the scales are tipped to greatly in the direction of wrongs they have done with no hope of balancing the scales themselves. This is where the good news of the gospel has the opportunity to shine its brightest as we share with them that we are not able to balance our scales but through Christ all of our sins, no matter how great, can be forgiven and a new life of freedom can begin.
